RE: Project Manager

February 07, 2026

Hello,

At a prestigious company such as Iron Bow Technologies, you demand the best. As a transitioning serviceman in the Air Force for 24 years, I offered my best everyday: to my peers, superiors and to my country. As I transition from the armed forces, I will continue to offer the best. Here's what I can bring to Iron Bow:

- Risk & Issue Mitigation
- Cross-Functional Leadership
- Resource Management
- Process Improvement
- Budget & Cost Control
- Critical Thinking

Most recently, while working at Ramstein Air Base, I was the First Sergeant, the 521 Air Mobility Wing, 721 Air Mobility Group and 721 Mobility Support Squadron where I coordinate personnel, resources and mission priorities for 338 personnel across 10 functional areas. Also, during my tenure, I planned and executed a multi-phase training and professional development project consisting of 25 structured sessions, which delivered standardized content to over 1K participants.

The skills I've acquired and valuable experiences I've earned during my time in the military will help me to smoothly transition over to project manager. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Jimmie Walton
